			Meet:	King George V gardens
			Summary:
			Clear overgrown grasses and plant new donated plants

Thursday 17/11 - Bit drippy today so no photos and a shortened task - just doing what was needed to be done considering the weather. Thanks to the 4 mad volunteers that came along today to remove the overgrown grassy mounds of pendulous sage from King George V sensory gardens.

Thanks to Mark James Munro for coming over early to collect all the plants and get them there safely- sorry for the muddy van you've now got!

Friday 18/11 - A couple more of our volunteers came along today to finish planting the donated plants and some spring bulbs into King George V gardens today.

Next year we should reap the benefits with some beautiful colours on display.

Thanks to the team on Thursday – Annette, Paul, Karen and Ian.

Thanks to the team today (Friday): (L-R) Stewart, Annette and Alistair
